

Half Hunter Necklace Pocket Watch Battery Replacement

This guide will walk you through the steps of replacing the battery to a smaller pocket watch.

Written By: Eren Barrick

INTRODUCTION

For this walk-through, we are going to learn how to replace the battery to a Half Hunter Necklace Pocket Watch. These instructions will also work for most types of Necklace Pocket Watches and do not require any specific skills to complete.

TOOLS:

- Tweezers (1)
-

Step 1 — Battery

- Remove the back of the pocket watch by locating the small indent on the side and pushing up on the back until it comes off.
- Set the cover aside so that you can put it back on once you finish.

Step 2

- Remove the plastic ring around the battery and inner workings of the watch by using a pair of tweezers to grab onto the plastic and lift it out of the watch.
- Set the plastic ring aside and do not dispose of it.

Step 3

- Take out the battery carefully using the set of tweezers to push on the underside of the battery. With enough pushing, the battery will fall out.
- Set the old battery aside or dispose of it how you please.

Step 4

- Replace the old battery with a new one by carefully sliding it back into place until it sits flat inside of the watch.

Step 5

- Reinsert the plastic covering into the pocket watch where it previously was by using the tweezers again until the plastic is also sitting flat in the back of the watch.

Step 6

- Put the cover of the watch back on by placing it and pushing it down until you hear a small click.

Step 7

- Pull up on the knob at the top of the watch and twist either left or right to readjust the time.

To reassemble your device, follow these instructions in reverse order.